A successful and responsive research dues to the wise, educated, and experienced architects. They are who represent the influenced element by place in space and provide desirable environment for human community. Meanwhile, the relationship between place and its internal elements has been determined will all of their hidden and transparent concepts for human desirable life. Actually, it is what must be understood by public and each person experiences a deep place perception, or at least he/she must not feel alienated. An architect can have permanent creativity in his work when he/she achieve all conceptual aspects of place and place dependent aspects such as climate capabilities or cultural and social imperatives. Although, there is no doubt in credit of theoretical and scientific research, the research about perceptions and intuitions are desirable, valuable, and premiere. Therefore, architecture needs open mindedness, because architecture needs precise conceptive observation, processes and its bases in how to represent them inevitably.
